

Universität Hamburg

DER FORSCHUNG | DER LEHRE | DER BILDUNG

Universität Hamburg is dedicated to sustainability, equal opportunity, and family-friendly policies. We also prize cultural diversity, communication, and interaction among people from different backgrounds and with different lifestyles.

As a University for sustainability, we put human resources development and especially the development and advancement of our young researchers at the fore of our strategic endeavors. By strengthening the tenure-track professorship, Universität Hamburg has introduced a new career opportunity for young researchers.

Due to the success of the tenure-track program established by the Federal Ministry of Education and Research, Universität Hamburg is inviting applications for the following tenure-track position in the key research area Manuscript Research

The Faculty of Humanities invites applications for a commencing as soon as possible, ref. no. JP 269.

TENURE-TRACK PROFESSORSHIP (W1 TENURE-TRACK LEADING TO A W2) FOR THE HISTORY OF THE LATE MIDDLE AGES AND THE EARLY MODERN PERIOD

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate is expected to teach and conduct research in the field. The successful candidate is further expected to collaborate in the key research area Manuscript Cultures and The Early Modern World and to participate actively in the instruction of students pursuing a teaching degree in the respective discipline as well as in the BA minor in medieval studies and MA program in medieval studies (especially in the area of historical auxiliary sciences). A focus on the history of Northern and/or Central Europe is desirable.

Section 12 subsection 7 sentence 2 of the Hamburg higher education act (Hamburgisches Hochschulgesetz, HmbHG) applies.

Requirements:

Academic qualifications and additional requirements as specified in Section 18 HmbHG.

Further criteria:

Applicants are expected to have international research experience as well as a successful track record in acquiring external funding and carrying out externally funded projects. The University places particular emphasis on the quality of teaching and therefore requests that applicants provide details of their teaching experience and objectives.

The post holder is expected to acquire the language skills necessary to teach in German (Level C1 of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) within two years of commencing employment providing he or she does not have the requisite skills when starting.

A tenure-track evaluation will be conducted during the second phase of the junior professorship in order to determine whether requirements for appointment to a W2 professorship have been met. Section 15 HmbHG applies. Upon positive evaluation, the post-holder will be appointed to a tenured W2 professorship. The regulations prohibiting internal appointments (Hausberufungsverbot) also apply to this junior professorship.

In accordance with Section 14 subsection 3 sentence 3 HmbHG, Universität Hamburg seeks to increase the proportion of women in teaching and research and encourages female academics to apply.

Qualified disabled candidates or applicants with equivalent status receive preference in the application process.

For further information, please contact Prof. Dr. Philippe Depreux at 49 (0)40 42838-4837 or philippe.depreux@uni-hamburg.de.

The application deadline is 01. March 2018. Please submit your application, including standard documents (CV, list of publications, teaching experience, external funding record, copies of certification and documents, plans for research and teaching) and reference number JP 269 to:
