The Faculty of Psychology and Human Movement invites applications for a

PROFESSORSHIP (W2) FOR SPORTS AND HUMAN MOVEMENT PSYCHOLOGY

commencing immediately, ref. no. 2253/W2.

In accordance with Section 14 subsection 3 sentence 3 of the Hamburg Higher Education Act (Hamburgisches Hochschulgesetz, HmbHG), Universität Hamburg seeks to increase the proportion of women in teaching and research and encourages female academics to apply.

Responsibilities:

The successful candidate is expected to teach and conduct research in the fields of sports and human movement psychology. Research topics and methods should contribute to the Faculty’s academic profile, particularly in the key research area Mechanisms of Change. Research should focus on the interaction between physical/athletic movement and neurocognitive processes, including emotional-motivational processes. Further focus on sensimotor function is desirable. In application, there should be links to the fields of health and competitive sports.

Section 12 subsection 7 sentence 2 HmbHG applies.

The successful candidate is expected to teach in the BA and MA in Human Movement Science programs, as well as to teach at the Institute of Psychology, and to participate actively in the instruction of students pursuing a teaching degree in the respective discipline.

Furthermore, the successful candidate is expected to take part in interdisciplinary research and teaching cooperation at Universität Hamburg as well as at national and international institutions, e.g., by taking part in new, externally funded research and/or teaching programs.

Finally, applicants should have experience in managing academic working groups and be prepared to become actively involved in academic self-governance.

Requirements:

Academic qualifications and additional requirements as specified in Section 15 HmbHG. Applicants should have an above-average international publishing record and proven success in ac-
